Death of Mrs. R. M. Pitman.

Mrs. Kate Pitman, aged 32, wife of Robt. Pitman, died at her home near Georgetown on Saturday night at 11 o'clock of consumption. Mrs. Pitman left three little children, besides a devoted husband to mourn her untimely demise. In early girlhood she joined the Christian church and all during the years since her life has shed forth the beauties of a Christian character. She was a true friend, a loving wife and an unselfishly sacrificing mother. Tender and true, loving and faithful, it is no wonder she won and held the tenderest regard of all who knew her. So the sorrowing husband has the deep sympathy of a wide circle of friends in his deep bereavement. Elder B. W. Trimble will conduct the funeral service at Corinth church, this morning at 9:30 o'clock and the burial will take place in Macedonia cemetery about 11 o'clock.

In the halcyon days of childhood standing by our grandmothers, listening to their stirring tales of pioneer life and bolder warfare, our interest began in the American Indian. The old black nurse had only to utter the word, "Injuns," to bring the most refractory urchin to terms. With maturer years our interest in this fascinating race has intensified. Whether we study them as the fierce tribes of North America, the more civilized, gentle followers of the kindly Montezuma, or the barbaric splendor of the Inca, they are alike wonderful and mysterious. On the surge of Ontario's billows, in the thunders of Niagara, by mountain vale and river, they have impressed themselves and can not be forgotten.

From whence came they, and what is their destiny? Mr. H. H. Emmert comes to us a representative of this race. He is touchingly impressive by the poetry and pathos of the story of departed glories of those lords of our primeval forests, and "points with laughter and tears" to his own attempts at citizenship. He seemingly paints his pictures in the fantastic shadows and flickering light of the wigwam.

He has tried to pierce the adamantine wall, which stands over between us and their origin, and sadly interprets the "handwriting-on-the-wall" which foretells their hopeless future.

We beg for Mr. Emmert the patronage he deserves for his talents and his unique subject.

There was no Sunday School at the Mission Station on Queen street Sunday evening on account of a developed case of diphtheria which appeared last week. The school will be open again next Sunday unless there be other cases. Prayer meeting as usual Thursday evening.

For a close, clean shave and courteous treatment go to Jack Sharp's. You will find his barber shop at the Commercial Hotel.

PRESBYTERIANISM.

One Hundredth Anniversary of the First Presbyterian Church at Mt. Sterling.

The Presbytery — Synod — Woman's Missionary Society.

On Sunday there were delightful services at the Assembly Presbyterian Church. Early in the morning, long before the hour of preaching, the beautiful audience room was well filled with attentive listeners.

On the platform at 11 o'clock were the venerable Robert Caldwell, of Sharpburg, once a pastor of this church; Dr. John Worrall, of Danville, and the pastor, Rev. A. J. Arrick.

The instrumental music was artistic and the vocal excellent, the audience joining in with the choir lead by Mr. Aldrich, of Lexington. Miss Ayers, vocal teacher in the High School, this city, sang a beautiful solo, charming the entire audience.

Then the Rev. Caldwell took for his text the last clause of the 28th chapter of Matthew, "Lo, I am with you all ways." It was a sweet, comforting and practical discourse from a servant of God in his eighty-fourth year. Standing, as it were, on the brink of eternity, near to his heavenly home, retrospectively he spoke as a man of faith in God, rich in experience, sweet highly enjoyed, and are but a foretaste of what is in store during the entire week. The ablest men and women of the church will be here to participate in the meetings of the Presbytery, the Synod, the Centennial Exercises and the Woman's Missionary Work.

Nothing was more beautiful to the eye and called forth recollections mingling joy with sorrow, than the one hundred golden links, joining 1795 with 1895.

Wonderful Escapes.

On last Saturday morning a wagon and team were standing on Locust street and at the passing of a buggy the team became frightened and ran away. They ran up West Locust street striking the wagon of Mr. R. Wade, taking off a wheel and throwing Mr. Turley, who was in the wagon, out hitting him on the hip and bruising him very badly. The team left Locust street at Sycamore and running up Sycamore to Main turned, and running down Main toward the East, ran into the buggy of John J. Cox in front of Oldham Bros. & Co's. store breaking a shaft and singeing and frightening Mrs. Cox and daughter, who were in the buggy. They narrowly escaped injury. The team was caught on Broadway; no damages to horses or wagon.

Mrs. Kate O. Clark had a splendid opening at her millinery store Friday and Saturday. For the benefit of her lady customers she will have her display of beautiful styles open all this week. Call and see her.

Last week one of our representatives was in Louisville and called on the Falls City Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of the Leather Brecoles Jeans Pants, also cassimere, kersey and corduroy overalls and jackets, with a message from Oldham Bros. & Co. THE ADVOCATE.

Mother.

All that I am my mother made me.—John Quincy Adams.

Nature's loving proxy, the watchful mother.—Bowler.

All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my mother.—Lincoln.

Let France have good mothers and she will have good sons.—Napoleon.

The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother.—Lactantius.

If there be aught surpassing human deed or word or thought, it is a mother's love.—Marchioness de Spodora.

If you would reform the world from its errors and vices, begin by enlightening the mothers.—C. Simmons.

Say to mothers, what a holy charge is theirs; with that a kindly power their love might rule the fountains of a new born mind.—Mrs. Sigourney.

Unhappy is the man for whom his own mother has not made all mothers venerable.—Richter.

Welch vs. Atherton.

Hon. W. G. Welch, of Stanford, "himself a sound money man," has written an open letter to Mr. J. M. Atherton of Louisville, the wealthy distiller who does not think Gen. Har- die worthy of his support. This letter he concludes in the following stirring sentences:

"Let me suppose, sir, that the Louis- ville convention had given you the nomination for Governor—and indeed they could hardly have done a wiser thing—what would have been your attitude toward our free-silver people? Would you have told them that you were a gold-bug, and that they were knaves who could not be permitted to vote for you without a change of heart or a loss of self-respect? Or would you not rather have said, only much more effectively than I can say it for you, that we are all Democrats agreed upon every issue but one, that that one has no place or relevancy in a contest for a State office; that it was no issue only pertinent or important in a national contest and only cognizable by a national convention; that next year and at that great session you meant manfully to do your best to have this issue determined your way, while they were free to do their best to have it decided their way, but that in the meanwhile greater, because closer and nearer, questions were pressing for immediate settlement—party autonomy, and the preservation of supreme dominion in Kentucky to Kentucky's natural and rightful rulers? Surely there would have been no other thought or command or in- vocation on your part than to close ranks, dress to the right and march forward. If you, in the event supposed, could, with propriety and honor, and indeed must have taken this course, why may not Gen. Har- die be allowed and expected to do the same?"

"For the rest, not to prolong an already lengthy letter, you and I know the head of our ticket to be a true man, loyal, courageous and capable. We know that for twenty years of brilliant political warfare he has fought faithfully for every opinion we hold dear, and has fought always where the fight was the fiercest and our line the weakest. The sin of in- gratitude at least shall not rest upon my soul. Neither can I believe, as reluctantly as I differ from you that a sound-money Democrat jeopardizes his principles or sells his honor in sup- porting Har- die. On the contrary, it is my judgment that a Democrat who refuses to vote at all, tamely surrenders his highest civic privilege, and that a Democrat who votes against Har- die, disinterestedly sacrifices his principle to gratify his spleen."

Between the Cincinnati warehouse fire and the frost in Madison county tobacco men are in bad lines, says the Mayville Ledger. It was thought that Sunday's frost had done only slight damages, but late reports are of a most discouraging character. Along the creek bottoms generally, where moisture prevails, the crop is well ruined, but in some parts of the county on the highlands the damage is trivial. In other elevated localities, however, where the conditions are apparently the same, the damage is very serious. An experienced grower in the Ledger that there will be no appreciable diminution in quality, but that the quality would be very in- ferior.

In Other Lands.

A bouquet of frozen lilies has ar- rived from New South Wales as a present to Queen Victoria. The flowers trav- eled in a block of ice, and looked as if freshly gathered.

The largest wrought-iron pillar is at Delhi, in India. It is sixty feet high and weighs seventeen tons.

Mr. Farquharson, of Invercauld, has decided to restore and render habita- ble Old Mar Castle, Fraserburg, the building in which the Jacobite rising in 1715 was hatched.

Sir Henry Irving has received his arms from the Herald's College. The shield is sable, with four swans argent and a laurel wreath in the center.

Oetroli duty was charged at Lille on the water brought from Lourdes by returning pilgrims. The officials claimed it as a mineral water, but their decision has been appealed from.

Austria has put a stop to pool rooms; bookmaking is to be allowed only on the race courses. The reason for the action is the shameless way in which agencies have been swindling the public.

England's wheat area was diminished by 510,000 acres, or over 26 per cent. last year, while at the same time the number of pigs was increased half a million, or 21 per cent. It is evi- dent that the country can not profitably produce its own breadstuffs, but no reason has yet been found for the turn toward pork.

Tunneling through the Simpson will begin early next year. There will be parallel tunnels, each 60,000 feet apart, and connected at intervals of 225 feet. They will be 15,000 feet longer than the St. Gothard and 21,600 feet longer than the Mount Cenis tunnels, but will be 1,500 lower than the two others, which will diminish the working expenses. It is expected that the work will be completed in five years and a half, three years' less time, that is, than was required for the St. Gothard. The estimated is $11,000,000.

IT IS NOT PARADISE BUT—

If you have some cash to spare and are willing to work, financial independence cannot be more surely secured than by buying a few acres of irrigated land in Salt River Valley.

This valley is in Southern Arizona, and is noted for its fine semi-tropical fruits and superior climate. Horticulturists say that greater profits can be realized here from oranges and grapes than in Florida or California. Physicians assert that the warm, dry, bracing climate excels in healing qualities Italy's balmyest air. The great blizzard of 1885 did not blight the tenderest leaf in this protected spot.

To get there, take Santa Fe Route to Phoenix, A. T., via Prescott and the new line, S. F. & P. Ry. Address T. C. Mc- cinnip G. A. 417 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, O., for illustrated fold- ers. They tersely tell the story of a remarkable country. Actual results are given—no guesswork or hearsay.

IT IS THE SALT RIVER VALLEY.

For the first time in the history of the turf two horses by the same sire have entered in the 2:10 list in the same race. At Woodland, Cal., August 26, Pathmont, by Altamont, 2:06 1/2, won the second heat in the 2:16 pace in 2:09 1/2; the race was postponed and won the next day by Chehalis, also by Altamont, who paced the fourth heat in 2:03. Pathmont is a brother of the trotter Altamont, 2:10 1/2, being out of Sallie M., by Oregon Pathfinder; Chehalis is out of Teora by Strader's Clay, and is a brother of the pacer Del Norte, 2:14, and Touchet, 2:13. Altamont now has three in the 2:10 list, Doc Sperry, pacer, 2:09, having been previously to his credit. Besides these 2:10 performers, Altamont is also represented by Altia, 2:10 1/2; Touchet, 2:13, and Del Norte, 2:14, while Klamath, 2:08 1/2, was sired by one of his sons.

THE USEFUL BAMBOO.

The Chinese utilize the Plant in a Great Variety of Ways.

Just go and look at your long, slender bamboo fishing pole and try to fancy what a house would look like built of that sort of thing. Yet when a Chinaman wishes to build a house he doesn't hire an architect and look up a contractor, and turn gray over plumbers and decorators. He just merely goes and plants a few bamboo roots. Then he goes on quietly attending to his business and lets them grow. In a few months he has a fine forest of bamboo from 40 to 80 feet high and with stalks ranging from half an inch to 15 inches in diameter. He digs a trench the shape and size he wishes his house and proceeds to cut the trees he thinks the proper size and sets them up in his trench, which he then fills up. With the slender stalks he makes rafters and shingles with bamboo leaves. The windows are delicate lattice work of bamboo, and the furniture is of slender bamboo, bent and curled and plaited. His water bucket is a good big stalk sawed off just below the joint and made as deep as he needs about it.

For a bottle he takes a slender piece and treats it in the same way. If in the confusion of building he mislays his knife, he just takes a good sharp edge of bamboo and does just as well for everything, except cutting bamboo, as if it were Sheffield steel. While he is building he keeps off the range of hunger by cutting the little tender shoots just as they peep from the ground and cooking them like asparagus. Of course we all know how dangerous it is to move at once into a new house, it is so likely to be damp, and so Mr. Sin Foo catches a severe cold. All he does is to run out to his bamboo thicket, gather a few leaves, boil them and drink the tea. In a day or so he is all right and ready to enjoy the delicious dinner Mrs. Sin Foo has prepared in honor of the "roof raising." She has delicate boiled bamboo shoots, bamboo grains baked in a bamboo joint with honey and bamboo shoots candied with sugar.

I can't tell you all they make of bamboo. Mats and cordage, kites, fences, bridges, fans, pipes for carrying water over the ricefields, the finest of paper and in fact nearly everything they use. The strangest of all uses is to bore gas and oil wells with it. They begin by twisting a hollow bamboo pole where they wish to sink the well. This gradually works its way into the ground. When sunk to its full length, they fasten another to the end of it and keep on twisting. This operation they keep up until they strike gas or oil, which comes gushing up through the poles. They use them also for bringing brine to the surface from the salt wells. And then just think how much cleaner, prettier and more graceful it is than our ugly iron work! Apropos of this, I remember an incident of the dainty little Japanese folk who took part in the Columbian exposition recently. In the space allotted for their village was one of our ordinary iron water taps. It never occurs to us to notice how hideous they are, but the Japanese looked at it, shuddered as one man and at once set about hiding the hateful object with clean, shining bamboo.—Washington Star.

A TEXAS TRAMP.

"I met an ingenious tramp in Texas," said J. N. Johnson, "and he made me for a dime and I suggested to him that he ought to go to work; he could find something in the country. 'Work?' said he, 'I do work. I work harder than men in almost any other line of business, my occupation frequently consuming 20 hours out of the 24. I am in a legitimate business. What is any business for? It is either to give comfort or to remove discomfort. The actor furnishes you with amusement and is entitled to remuneration. 'The physician removes pain or annoyance and is entitled to his pay. Now I am dirty and ragged and woe-begone. I am a source of annoyance to all who see me. For the pitiful sum of 10 cents I remove the annoy- ance, and it is worth the money. They don't give it to me for the char- ity, but in order to get rid of me. Of course you might say that by forcing my presence upon people I create the annoyance myself, but there is no business where those who follow it do not try to create a want in order to profit by satisfying it. That is exactly what I do. I prefer this kind of work to any other, although it re- quires long hours, hard labor and a close study of human nature.'"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

David Benjamin, of Hortonville, Wis., recently found on his farm the skeleton of a very large man, apparently inclosed in some sort of preservative coating, suggesting the exist- ence of the art of mummifying among American aborigines.

Joseph Hewitt was given ten years by a jury at Winchester, Ind., for attempting to blow up his family with dynamite. After his conviction he tempted suicide.

In France it is believed that when a white plover settles upon a chinless individual, betokening speedy death for some inmate of the house.

In Holland and Belgium to kill a stork is considered one of the greatest misfortunes that can happen to a man. If luck is certain to follow him through life.

In most parts of Europe it is considered unlucky for a hare to cross the road in front of a traveler. Among the Romans the omens was so unfortunate that if a man starting upon a journey espied a hare on the road before him he would return and wait until the following day to begin his journey.

The early Christians had a superstition that the black mark running down the back of a donkey, and cut at right angles by a similar mark across the shoulder, is the mark of the cross, and that it was miraculously placed upon the ass that Christ rode upon his triumphal entry into Jerusalem. This superstition is said to prevail at the present day in Spain and Italy.

The story of the phoenix is a common superstition in several countries. According to the ancient and best accepted legend the world has but one phoenix. This animal, at the end of 900 years, burns itself to death in a funeral pyre of its own erection, and as soon as it expires another phoenix with wings outstretched rises from the flames.

The country people of England, as well as of several other countries, have an idea that the red of a cock's breast was caused by a drop of blood which fell upon it at the crucifixion. According to the story, the robin, commemorating the condition of Christ, tried to pluck the crown of thorns from his brow, and in doing so, got his breast wet with the blood flowing from the wounds. The color became permanent, being transmitted from generation to generation, and thus, according to the legend, the robin is a perpetual reminder of the sufferings of Christ.

In the East it is commonly said that ten animals were admitted to Paradise. (1) The dog Kadri, of the seven sleepers of Ephesus; (2) Baalam's ass, which reproved the disobedient prophet; (3) Solomon's ant, which reproved the sluggard; (4) Jonah's whale; (5) the ram of Isaac, caught by the horns, and offered in sacrifice instead of Isaac; (6) the camel of Saleh; (7) the cuckoo of Belkiss; (8) the ox of Moses; (9) the animal called Al Borak, which conveyed Mohammed to heaven. The following are sometimes substituted: The ass on which our Saviour rode into Jerusalem; the ass on which the Queen of Sheba rode when she visited Solomon;—(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Kentucky must take the medal for pretty brides. Here is what an effulgent society reporter on the Mayville Republican has to say of a very recent charmer: "The bride is a dem-doodle, about the average height, with an exquisitely rounded form. She has a face like a pretty little, silver lashed eyes of the brightest hazel, while sunny brown hair, such as painters love and poets sing of, clusters about her fair young brow. She was attired in an artistic gown of cream, low corsage, demi-traine, and carried a peerless bouquet of roses. Her manner is suave, and she is a charming companion." Don't fault!

A curious story is being told about the divine Duss's first appearance in Naples. A few people in the theater were half asleep. Suddenly a little girl about 15 years of age came out on the stage wearing a little white dress, with a blue ribbon tied in her hair. Not a hand greeted the debutante but at the first word she uttered everybody sat up.

GAME CHINESE PHEASANTS.

A Bird That is Said to Have Cleaned out all the Game-cocks of the Northwest.

According to a private letter the importation of Chinese pheasants into the northwestern part of the United States has resulted in a novel and unexpected violation of the laws of Oregon and Washington, where these birds now abound, says the New York Sun. It is said that a sporting man of Portland when out shooting had the luck to capture a young cock pheasant alive, and on the impulse of the moment carried it home and put it in a nebulous belonging to a friend. The bird took kindly to confinement, and during the ensuing winter waxed fat and sleek. Except for its beauty it attracted no special attention from the owner or anyone else.

However, this season of quiet wait to come to an abrupt end. The winter passed away, and the season when the birds migrate from the South was at hand. At this the cock pheasant began to put on airs. He plucked himself, held up his head and strutted about in lordly fashion. And then came a morning when the owner of the hen yard went out to feed his flock and found a scene that made him wish he had not taken the stranger in. There was but one cock left in the flock, and that was the cock pheasant. The gregarious bird had simply pitched into three ordinary cocks that had been kept during the winter and killed them all.

The story of the slaughter was carried to the owner of the pheasant, who made haste to go to the scene. After a careful examination of the dead birds he paid their value and more, too, and then extended secrecy on the hen owner. Thereafter, they say this owner of a cock pheasant went up and down the city casually mentioning his bird, and when a man who owned a game rooster was willing to listen, the merits of the pheasant as a fighter were told to him in a way to excite indignation or contempt or some such passion, and a match was made to fight the rooster against the cock pheasant. And it is added that the pheasant won every match, so that his owner made a haul of money. In these days it is hard to make matches between even the best game roosters and Chinese cock pheasants, because no one will back the rooster, but if any visitor would like to see two birds of rare beauty pitted in a fight for life he has only to get the right letters of introduction when going to the cities of the Northwest, and he will find in some quiet place an outfit where pheasants are the fighters, and the fight is a flash every time.

MR LINCOLN'S SUBSTITUTE.

He Was a Minister's Son and Made a Good Soldier.

Writing to the Philadelphia Record from Stroudsburg, Pa., a correspondent says: It is not generally known that Abraham Lincoln sent a substitute to the war against the South, but such is a fact. During the earlier days of the war it seems to have been the desire of all prominent men in Washington to have a representative in the ranks, and Lincoln was no exception to the rule. At that time there was a minister named Staples in Washington, one of whose sons, then aged sixteen, had a desire to go to the front. Lincoln heard of him, and after a conference selected him as his representative, and he proved worthy, for he won honor on the field. He survived the war and finally died in Stroudsburg. The inscription on the stone over his grave reads as follows: "J. C. Summerfield Staples, a private of Company C, 176th Regiment, P. V. Also a member of the Second Regiment, D. C. Vols., as a substitute for Abraham Lincoln."

Onward is the leading sire of new 230 performers for 1895. Not less than 13 of his get have already entered the list this season. He now has 123 to his credit with records of 230 or better. This places him at the head of the sons of George Wilkes as a 230 sire. Red Wilkes is a close second, with 118 to his credit. At center is third, his little number 69. Red Wilkes was foaled in 1874. Onward in 1875, and Alcantara in 1876. Lord and Lady Aberdeen ride bicycles in Ottawa, and the latter appears in bloomers.

FOR SALE

The Best Business in Montgomery County.

We have decided to sell privately our ice plant and business in this city.

It consists of a six ton ice plant in excellent repair and the ice made by this plant is the best made in this country, which is attributed largely to the quality of water used. We have a ready sale for every lump of ice we can produce at a good profit, and we can convince anyone desiring to purchase, that our statements are correct. In connection with the ice plant we have a wholesale beer business the profit on which is a good business in itself. This business was established five years ago, and on the amount of money which we ask for it, we have realized in any one year from 25 to 35 per cent net. We also offer for sale the residence of J. M. Pickrell, one of the best, most convenient and most modern houses in the city, situated on Holt Avenue, close to the business center of the city.

Our reason for selling: We began the establishment of this business with little capital, and the labor it required to pull through, has been so arduous that it has left Mr. J. M. Pickrell in poor health, and he must have a rest. Were it not for this fact it would not be for sale at any price. Call on or address

How Free Wool Has Benefited the United States.

The adoption of free wool in the United States tariff law has resulted in advantage to the United States manufacturers, according to a report from United States Consul Schramm in Uruguay. He points that the shipment of Uruguay wools to the United States have largely increased by reason of the tariff change. "This is greatly beneficial to the interests of the United States," he adds, "from the fact that the qualities raised here have never before reached the United States. As these fine wools cannot be produced in the United States, and at the same time are essential to the manufacture of various articles, it is evident that the cheaper they can be made to our manufacturers the more they will be enabled to compete for the world's markets as well as supply the home market."

MUST PAY IN FULL.

Decision Affecting All Fire Insurance Policies in Kentucky.

A decision of importance to holders of fire insurance policies as well as to the insurance companies was rendered Monday by Judge Settle, in the Circuit Court at Bowling Green. In the case of W. H. Cooke against the Calcedonia Insurance Company the plaintiff sued for $750, the face of a policy of insurance on a house burned at Sullivan's Grove. The company sought to pay only three-fourths of the value of the property, there being a stipulation to that effect in the policy, but Judge Settle decides that the full face of the policy must be paid.

This decision is based on the "Follis law," passed at the long session of the Legislature, and which provides that all insurance companies must pay in full the amount fixed by them or their agents in the policy, and on which the insured pays premium. Heretofore the companies have not been paying the face of the policies, but have always created it under the three fourths' clause in their contracts.

Anyone Can Dream Success.

It's quite another thing to win it. When a business grows as anyone would expect to see it growing, there's a sure sign of success. We know what those reasons are, on the thousands of careful buyers hereabouts. We want more than usual to know, a business that grows as the people and the store hours of acquaintance of 35 years make us know. Certainly that patron gets the largest selections of goods at our store, and it is the people who are the best customers to do business with. It is the people who are the best customers to do business with. It is the people who are the best customers to do business with.

ADVOCATE PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Tuesday, October 8, 1895.

If Mr. Bradley thought enough of a negro to vote for one for a State office against an honest and intelligent Democrat, and again to vote for another for a county office (God knows how many more he has voted for) against an ex-Federal soldier, is it any stretch of the imagination to say if Mr. Bradley should be elected Governor of Kentucky, he will, as opportunity offers, appoint negroes to office rather than white men.

Mr. John C. Wood, Republican candidate for Railroad Commissioner from this District is in Eastern Kentucky in the interest of his candidacy. Mr. Wood will without doubt busy himself in explaining to the voters he meets why they should not support his opponent, Mr. Green B. Kellar, as clean and honest a man and as true a Democrat as walks, but he will be very chary about telling the voters of his district why he voted for a negro against a decent white man.

Mr. Bradley, the Republican candidate for Governor, says the "nigger" is not in this campaign. Mr. Bradley has put him very much in campaigns in the past. He has embraced every opportunity offered him to vote for a negro candidate in preference to a white man, even when that white man was an ex-Federal soldier. Mr. Bradley will find when the votes come to be counted in November that the "nigger" is very much in this campaign, and that the people will not forget how he (Mr. Bradley) has put the "nigger" into other campaigns. There are thousands of Kentuckians, good Republicans too, who will not vote for a negro themselves, nor for a man who has voted for one, if they know it. Billy O'Bradley will not carry his party strength. "Now you mind it."

REED LOCKWOOD WEDDING

Regarded as the Local Society Event of the Season.

Brilliant Gathering in St. John's Last Evening—Elaborate Decorations and Rich Gowns.

The wedding of William Reid of Mt. Sterling, Ky., and Miss Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick W. Lockwood, which took place last evening, will be regarded by many people as the great local event of the season. All of the leading members of Stamford Society witnessed the ceremony at St. John's Church and later attended the reception at the home of the bride parent's on Strawberry Hill. A gay throng began to assemble at the church more than half an hour previous to the time set for ceremony. The entire nave of the church was reserved for invited guests. Shortly before the ceremony, the side doors were opened, a portion of the waiting crowd was admitted to the transepts, which were quickly filled, as was the gallery.

The chancel was decorated in a lavish manner. The approaches and sides were banked with palms, and the choir-stalls were entirely hidden from view by them. The brass altar-rail was relieved with smiling and white rose-buds. Ferns, relieved with white plumes, formed the back-ground for the altar. A solid bank of green hid the pulpit. This was dotted with white plumes.

While the guests were arriving the well-known Brooklyn organist, Harry Rowe Shelly, played a number of selections. Among these were, "Wagner's 'Waldweben,'" "Rubinstein's 'Feranors,'" Wagner's "Rielsgold," an Andante by Gluck, and a symphony by Dvorak.

The bridal party was very prompt in its arrival, and the opening chords of Wagner's "Lohengrin" march sounded at exactly eight o'clock.

The procession was formed in the vestibule. First came the ushers, who were Henry C. Swords and Victor Phillips of New York, Lawrence Jonckes and Walter E. Houghton of Stamford, D. A. Gay of Mt. Sterling, Ky., and John Bulkeley, a nephew of ex-Gov. Bulkeley of Hartford. They were followed by the two little nieces of the bride, Marguerite and Florence Grumbrecht, attired in white and carrying bouquets of white rose-buds. The bridesmaids, five in number, followed. They were Miss Estelle Hoyt and Miss Winifred Hall of Stamford, Miss Sarah Lockwood Middlebrook of Brooklyn, Miss Eleanor Pierpont Edwards of Newark, N. J., cousins of the bride, and Miss Mabel Ford of Kentucky. They were attired in white satin covered with chiffon, and carried white roses, with the exception of Miss Mabel Ford, who wore yellow and carried roses to match.

The maid of honor was Miss Mabel Clayborn of Philadelphia. She wore yellow satin and carried yellow roses. The bride, who wore white satin and a tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, leaned upon the arm of her father. The party was met at the chancel steps by the groom and the best man, T. Coleman Reid, a brother of the groom. The betrothal ceremony was performed by Rev. William Talbot, D. D., rector of the church. The marriage ceremony at the altar was performed by Rev. Samuel Cooke, D. D. The bride was given away by her father. Upon the conclusion of the ceremony, the triumphant strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March pealed forth and the procession was reformed, the bride and groom leading, and passed out of the church. The guests immediately repaired to the house of the parents of the bride on Strawberry Hill, where a reception was held and supper was served by Marvel. There were upward of 300 invited guests present, many of whom were from New York and Kentucky. Following the reception dancing was enjoyed by the young people upon the enclosed verandas, which had been enclosed by frames of glass, and many varicolored lanterns lent a cheerful glow to the scene.

The couple stood beneath a bower of green and white roses placed in the bay in the drawing room. On either side stood the bridesmaids. The house was decorated with wreaths and strings of green. Shortly after ten o'clock the couple started upon a ten days' wedding tour.

The bridal carriage was decked with white and the harnesses on the horses were almost covered with white ribbons. Mr. and Mrs. Reid will make their home in Mt. Sterling, Ky.

GENUINE BARGAIN!

FOR OUR CUSTOMERS THIS FALL.

Never in our entire business career have we bought as many goods as we have this season. Our buyer, with bullion to back him, has searched all the markets, both East and West, with the tenacity of a bloodhound, and not a single bargain nor "good thing" has escaped his eagle eye.

Never in the history of Mt. Sterling have the people had the opportunity presented them to save money on their fall purchases as now. We shall offer them the advantage of Genuine Cash Prices. Goods bought for CASH—down and sold for CASH—down! You pay for nobody's bad debts. Our motto, strictly, "Underbuy, Undersell, Cash," knocks out all competition and enables our customers to

What Pleases Others Might Not Please You

In every instance, but what pleases an highly educated, up-to-date mechanical expert, who is thoroughly posted on the construction of bicycles, from a wheelman's standpoint, as well as that of a strictly high-grade mechanic, is a pretty good pointer to buyers who are in search of the best market affords.

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 15, 1895.

R. F. Maxwell, Mgr. Indiana Bicycle Co., City.

Dear Sir—Referring to the Waverley bicycle which I bought of you a few weeks ago, I will candidly admit that I am delighted with it. My first impression was one of surprise at the ease and smoothness of its motion. It appears to be ample strong and substantial in construction and every one must admit that it is most graceful in appearance. I consider it a strictly high grade machine; otherwise I could not have bought it. It is all you claim it to be. Wishing you well merited success, I remain yours truly,

That Tired Feeling

Dizziness, Pain in the Back, Liver Complaint All Cured by Hood's.

"I cannot say too much in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was subject to pains in my back, dizziness, liver complaint and that tired feeling. I was completely worn out and could scarcely walk half a mile and it seemed as though life was a burden at the age of 38. I did not care about living, when a friend Induced Me to Try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has benefited me greatly and I have not been without it since. And it is to be a wonderful blood purifier and I can say to all who suffer from complaints brought about by impure blood, if they want to be cured take Hood's Sarsaparilla. You can consider me a life long friend to Hood's Sarsaparilla."

Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I recommend as every opportunity, Mrs. L. E. Reynolds, Booneville, Kentucky.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver, Bile, Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Indigestion, &c.

A Good Time to Buy.

If you want a new bicycle don't consider it necessary to wait for "next year's wheel" because it happens to be September. The present month is not so very far along in the riding season. The Fall months are apt to afford the best riding of the year. In autumn neither the sloughs and slumps of the Spring-time or the torrid heat of Summer menace the rider's progress and comfort.

Notwithstanding this surplus, the monthly statement shows that the public debt increased $1,834,687. The net increase during the past three years is $106,467,390. The deficit for the first three months of the present fiscal year is $9,884,658.

M. Kahn, agent for M. Goldsmith, of New York city, received 327 head of cattle for export at Bowling Green last week at four and one-half cents per pound, says the Park City Times. They were bought from the following parties: Porter & Taylor, Smith & Smith, Walter Claypool, R. W. Covington, and several others. It was a good lot of cattle, and Mr. Kahn was highly pleased. There will be from 300 to 400 more ready to go the last of the year. The sale of cattle brought their owners over $20,000.

This, says the London Daily Graphic, is certainly the golden age of operatic composers. It is stated by an Italian contemporary that a workman in the arsenal at Venice, named Coccolo, who is devoted to music, has recently completed the score of an opera, which he is naturally very anxious to get produced. Accordingly, the newspapers of that city have started a subscription list for the purpose of collecting a sufficient sum to cover the cost of the representation. Curiously enough Signor Bertoldi, a fairly successful Italian song writer at the present day, was also a workman in the same arsenal.

THE WIDOWS OF FAMOUS MEN.

Some Have Made Reputations By Their Own Exertions.

MRS. SHERIDAN AT HOME.

A Galaxy of Women of Whom the Nation May Well Be Proud.

THE WOMEN OF FORTUNE.

The widow of one of the best known and probably the best loved man in America, George W. Childs, has always led such a quiet, retired life that Philadelphia, as a rule, knew very little about her. Emma Bouvier Childs is a slender, little dark-eyed woman, whose main interest in life seems to be the well being and care of her household. She has never been a society woman, and has rarely been seen in society, the theater and opera having no attraction for her. She has lived in the great white marble mansion during the winter for many years going as soon as spring came to the country seat, Wootton. Mrs. Childs has left her Philadelphia mansion too good since the death of her devoted husband, and she will soon build a house in Washington and make that city her home.

Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, widow of the hero of the Confederacy, lives in Charlotte, N. C., with her sister, the widow of Gen. D. H. Hill. She has been busily engaged in the last few years in writing the life of her famous husband, and has almost ruined her eyesight in her labor of love. Two little grandchildren, Stonewall and Julia Jackson Christian, the children of her only child, Julia Jackson, who died five years ago, live with her, and are the joy and comfort of her life.

Mrs. James G. Blaine has two homes, one in Washington, where so many sorrowful crowded thick upon her, and the beautiful summer home at Bar Harbor. Mrs. Blaine is a cold, reserved woman, and has never been very popular socially. All her life and soul seemed to be centered in her distinguished husband, and without him she seemed to be lost indeed. She spends much of her time in traveling, and the Washington house is rarely opened.

Mrs. John A. Logan, with her patriarchal face and snow white hair, is probably the most picturesque of the military widows. She is a very rich woman, and has made most of her fortune since the death of her husband. She is a shrewd business woman, and an able financier. She has greatly at heart now the success of Bishop Hurl's mission. She has promised to raise $100,000 for the institution, and is very likely to succeed.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, one of the most famous widows who made their names for themselves, is alive and strong at the ripe old age of eighty-three. Unfortunately from overwork, she has fallen mentally to a great extent during the last five years.

Mrs. Isabella Beecher Hooker, a sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe, is past seventy-five, but she is a busy, energetic woman still. Last winter Mrs. Hooker journeyed to South Carolina.

Mrs. Phil Sheridan has continued to live since the death of her husband in the house on Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, which was presented to the General when he went to Washington to succeed Gen. Sherman. Mrs. Sheridan leads a very exclusive, dignified life, only occasional taking part in the social life of the capital. She is a young woman compared with the other General's wives, and is very handsome and distinguished-looking. She devotes much of her time to the education of her four children, Philip, who will enter West Point as soon as he is old enough, and her daughters, May, Irene and Louise.

Mrs. John Drew, at sixty-seven, is as active as a kitten. Her theatrical company owes almost all of its success to her clever dancing and exquisite acting. Mrs. Drew is to the young actress the inspiration which rare old Joe Jefferson is to the actor. Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher is one of the most delightful of all the famous widows. She is eighty-four years of age, but so pleasing in face and manner, so young in heart and thought that it is hard to realize that she has passed so many milestones of a way sometimes weary and rough to tread. She lives in a pretty apartment surrounded by pictures, books and all sorts of reminiscences of her dead husband. All of her faculties are unimpaired, and she is thoroughly informed on all of the questions of the day, and prepared and delighted to discuss them.

Gen. Grant's widow, Mrs. Julia Dent Grant, divides her time between New York and Washington. She has not yet decided in which place she will buy her future home. Mrs. Grant realized almost $250,000 from the memoir of her husband, and the Government allows her a pension of $5,000 a year. She has four children and twelve grandchildren, who make her life a very full and pleasant one.

Mrs. N. I. Grant Sartoris, the only girl of the Grant family, was a bride of the White House twenty years ago. She married a young Englishman and went abroad to live. Since the death of her husband the rich young widow has spent all of her time in Washington. She has a pretty home on R street, and her two young daughters live with her. The only son is at school in England.

Mrs. Ward McAllister, the widow of the late social arbiter, is positively unknown to the people of New York. Although her name always appeared upon the lists of subscribers to the assembly balls and other social functions she never appeared at one. So retired has been her life that she did not even preside over the dinner parties her husband was so fond of giving. All of her social duties have been relegated to her daughter, Miss Louise McAllister, who has inherited her father's fondness for society.

Mrs. James A. Garfield is said to be worth $500,000, almost all the gift of the American people. When General Garfield died, his estate aggregated only about $30,000. Mrs. Garfield lives in elegant but quiet style in Illinois. Mrs. Madeline Vinton Dahlgren, widow of the Admiral, lives in Washington. She spends much of her time in literary work and writes for publication when she feels the inclination. Two of her sons married Drexel girls, bringing with them fortunes of two or three millions each, and the Dahlgrens were well provided for themselves. So the work is merely a labor of love, though the publishers are always glad to send a substantial check in return for it.

Mrs. John Drexel, the beautiful widow of the great banker, lives in a magnificent house on Madison square. She is one of the best amateur musicians in America, playing with equal skill on the harp and the piano. Her three daughters are all accomplished musicians, having chosen different instruments. Frequently at the musicals Mrs. Drexel delights in giving all the music; it is furnished by the family quartet.

Mrs. Leland Stanford, one of the richest widows in America, has retired to Washington, where she used to spend so much of her time, and lives for the most part of the year in California. She is greatly interested in the great university on the Pacific slope, built as a memorial of her only son.

I found no relief until I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nervine. I have taken five bottles and believe I am a well woman, and I have taken great comfort in recommending all of my friends to use Nervine. Mrs. George H. Stuart, widow of the California Senator, still keeps her old home in Washington, but spends most of her time traveling on the continent or in California.

Mrs. Lucy Carnegie, sister-in-law of Andrew Carnegie, probably has the most enjoyable time of any widow in the world. She is the only woman member of the New York Yacht Club. In her yacht Dungeness she sails all over the world at will. Her white-bellied Florida Dungeness, has glass preserve, beautiful drive-ways and bridge-paths, hosts all of the feminine household with which women love to surround themselves.

Delirium Said to Be Caused By Coffee.

A remarkable case of delirium tremens from the use of strong coffee is interesting the physicians of Wayne, Neb. Mrs. H. M. Houshaw, the patient, is between forty-five and fifty and is the wife of a farmer living a short distance from town, says the Chicago Times Herald. For many years she has been addicted to the drink of very strong coffee in excessive quantity, frequently taking a mug as a dinner cup at a meal. Her nervous system has suffered seriously as a result, and on several occasions she has attempted to break off the habit, but without success. A few days ago she resolved to make a last desperate effort, and for a time managed to get along without touching the seductive beverage. At the end of the second day, however, her nervous system was in a state of almost complete collapse, and a few hours later attack of what closely resembled delirium tremens set in. The physician called was at first deceived by the symptoms, but when the nature of the case was explained to him he said the disease was undoubtedly caused by the sudden breaking off of the habit. Mrs. Houshaw's recovery is probable, but her physicians say she can hardly survive another attack.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. C. Call-neth, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail, and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store of house without it." Get a free trial at W. S. Lloyd's Drug Store.

A SHOPPING STORE SECRET.

The Art of Cutting Prices so as to Draw Big Crowds and Big Profits.

The writer of this article recently made a trip from one city to another. The first city was one of moderate enterprise. The merchants made no particular boast of getting the world's affairs, but were all supposed to be doing a fair amount of business at a good living profit. The other city to which he went was one of unusual size, which has the reputation of being one of the most enterprising in the country. The stores have grown to enormous proportions, and have the name the world over of being the cheapest and most liberal of any others. Yet, when the writer came to the larger city and began to look into the inside workings of the business and noticed the different prices at which goods were sold, he found that, although the stores had the name of wonderful bargain-givers and were known everywhere by the name of great price-cutters, still, taking the stores as a whole, these stores in the larger cities in nearly every instance sold goods at a higher price than they were sold in the smaller towns, and almost without exception the gross profits which the merchants made on the goods were from 15 to 20 per cent. higher than the merchants in the smaller cities could get. This set the writer to wondering how it was that these large stores should have the name everywhere for enterprise and low prices, while the stores in the smaller city, which sold the cheaper, were as a rule called high-priced and old fogies.

As the subject was investigated a little more closely, however, he began to notice that there were some instances in which these large stores sold goods wonderfully cheap, much cheaper in fact than the goods could be even manufactured at. For instance, in one case, a certain store advertised the well-known flour chamisso dress lining, which usually sells at twenty-five and thirty-five cents a yard, for eight cents. These goods cost a great deal more than this selling price, and what could be the object in taking so popular an article and cutting it down with one blow to one-third and perhaps one-fourth of what it sells for in many stores. The writer thought he would see what information could be gained on the subject.

On inquiring of the manager how the business was, he replied that it was splendid. "We are offering the people some bargains to-day which they can not resist." "But," the writer asked, "how can you afford to sell these goods which you advertise at so much less than cost?" The reply was, "Oh, that is not the case. In fact, these goods are sold at a price which is not less than the cost. They will not come unless there is some unusual inducement held out to them, but when they do come they buy enough goods at a regular profit to more than make up for the loss which we sustain on the linings."

A further careful examination into the matter, and visits to several other stores where sales were being conducted in a similar manner, showed that these large stores draw almost their entire trade through holding out such inducements to the people. The merchants in this larger city make a totally different practice of price cutting from the merchants in the smaller place. The merchants in the latter city sell their goods all around at a reasonably cheap price. They make no very great profit on any line of goods and gain no particular reputation for selling cheaply, for the people naturally expect that everything should be at moderately low prices and they are never startled by having any very remarkable bargain offered them. Just the opposite to this, the stores in the larger city make a good round profit on nearly everything they sell except those articles which they hold out as special inducements to buyers. The people of this city are kept in constant excitement on account of the real sensations which these stores make week after week. They will select some well-known and staple article and sell it for probably a half or a third of what it usually costs to make it. On the sales of these goods they, of course, calculate to lose a considerable sum, but they gain the attendance of enormous crowds at their store, and the liberal profits which they make on other goods far more than compensate for the loss on the bait which they hold out to the people. The thought, therefore, presented itself to the mind of the writer as to whether the small city was not making a mistake, in its methods of doing business.

The larger city is day after day and year after year gaining a greater reputation as a business center simply because there is not a day in which some store is not practically giving something away to the public. These large stores handle possibly from ten to fifty thousand different objects. Out of this whole number of objects there will be possibly from ten to twenty which are sold at a loss, but these at such a manifold loss that the people are really surprised, and are so pleased at getting these things cheap they overlook the fact that they are more than taking up for the loss on other goods which they purchase. This is what may be called progressive merchandising.

In a smaller town, if a merchant was getting up a sale of ladies' hosiery and had, say, three or four different lines which he wished to mark down, he would probably mark each line with a 10 or 15 per cent. reduction all around. This reduction, which would make the goods all very cheap would probably only draw a few buyers who were really in need of the goods and who knew the real value of the qualities offered. If the same sale was gotten up in the larger city which we have mentioned, the store would probably make only a very slight profit, if any, reduction on the majority of ladies' hosiery, but would take one kind out and cut the price squarely in two, or, perhaps, even make it one-third of the usual selling price. For instance, if one line consisted of black hosiery which regularly sold for thirty-five cents a pair, it is very probable that the store would mark these down to ten or fifteen cents a pair, even though they may have cost as much as $3 a dozen. This kind of a reduction would create some excitement and bring a crowd of people to the store, and while the loss on the one article might be quite heavy, the sales of the other goods at the regular price would make the average loss on the whole very much less than would be the case where the store in the smaller city made an all-around reduction in price.

Mr. Ingalls on Profit Sharing.

M. E. Ingalls, President of the Big Four and C. & O. Roads, recently addressed the railroad branch of the Young Men's Christian Association at Clifton Forge. In the course of his remarks Mr. Ingalls said that the Directors of the roads represented by him had determined upon a division of earnings with employees after all fixed charges were paid. That, in fact, this plan was decided upon two years ago, but the panic of 1893 had so reduced the earnings of the roads that there had been nothing to divide. With the improvement of business now at hand, Mr. Ingalls promised that the co-operative plan would be tested, and he expressed the hope that it may be effective and prove to the world that strikes and trouble between employers and employees are unnecessary.—Clinton Enquirer.

The Montgomery County Times,
we take it from the utterances of its editor, S. S. Cassidy, has passed into history, after a hard struggle for life. Mr. Cassidy has signed a contract with the Singer Sewing in this and Bath counties. The fact is there are more papers published here than can be supported. With two papers and two job offices, success to each would be assured, but with any more, the business will be as heretofore, divided, and none of them can expect more than a meager existence and that for a short time. Mr. Cassidy did well to hold up as long as he did.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

OPEN LETTER.

TO MR. J. M. ATHERTON

Hon. W. G. Welch Makes
Some Pertinent and Timely Remarks.

Nothing to Prevent Sound-Money Men Voting For Hardin.

Currency Issue Not Yet Passed
Upon in National Convention.

TICKET DESERVES SUPPORT.

The following open letter to Mr. J.
M. Atherton has been received by
Loa. Times and was published
October 3d:

Stanford, Ky., Oct. 2.—My Dear
Atherton: I read with lively interest your open letter to Gen. P. Wat Hardin, published September 25. May I under favor of a long and unbroken friendship and without being suspected of officious interference, offer a concise dissent to certain conclusions
you announce in that letter?

Let me promise that I agree with you fully on the currency question. I believe, as you do, that there can be but one standard for the measurement of values, and that that one should be the best and most stable, and this belief has been strengthened and confirmed by recent study of your admirably lucid and convincing treatise on
"The Fallacies of Free Silver." I go further with you, and hold it as beyond rational question, that the State Convention, whose commission Gen.
Hardin holds, unmistakably displayed an overwhelming sentiment against the free coinage of silver. It is true also that Gen. Hardin, goaded to it, I suspect, by the somewhat dictatorial dogmatism of certain of our newspapers, has—unwisely and unnecessarily,
I grant you—advocated as a nominee
of that convention, and with the characteristic ardor and audacity, the very heresy against which it undertook to pronounce.

Does it follow, however, either of necessity or at all, that as you put it,
no sound-money Democrat can vote
for Gen. Hardin without surrendering his convictions? It is a question of no little moment to me as a voter and to thousands of others in Kentucky.
In answering it to and for myself I have not underestimated the force of much that you say, nor have I been freer than you from the natural impugnance one feels on being disappointed in a reasonable expectation, yet my answer is diametrically opposed to yours. Let me give briefly the reasons which have led me to this conclusion. They may possibly be a help not to you, I fear, who were swayed by the halcyon-headed of morals, but to others who stand halting betwixt the dilemma of Republican demagoguery and the deep sea of unlimited cheap silver.

In the first place, I maintain that the Louisville convention did not intend by its nomination of Gen. Hardin to impose upon him the duty of advocating the gold standard or the degradation of recanting his own views on this question. These views were well known to the convention and to the people. He was nominated in spite of them, or rather with a wise heedlessness to them. They had no earthly relevancy to the place he sought, and the question was itself a purely national one, which had not been passed upon by either of the national conventions—of course I leave out of consideration the fantastic utterances of the Populists. It is true
the National Democratic Convention of 1892 had voted down a resolution favoring the free coinage of silver.
With like unanimity and promptitude that convention would have voted down a resolution favoring a gold standard. Notoriously, both of the parties which are to be taken seriously in this country have so far failed or feared to take position on this question. It was, therefore, in June last, and it is now as a party question, an open question, and as such to be treated liberally and tolerantly. The State Convention must, in common justice to it, be understood as merely declaring the prevailing abstract sentiment on an issue presently thrust upon a tribunal without authoritative jurisdiction, and then as saying to Gen. Hardin, and to its other nominees whose views on this subject seem neither to have been known nor inquired about: "We do not inquire or expect you to change your opinions concerning the currency as you might change your coat. We endorse you on

"The Fallacies of Free Silver." I go

There is a third consideration which must not be overlooked. If, as you declare, no sound money Democrat can support Hardin except at the sacrifice of his principles, does it not follow that free-silver Democrats can not vote for our other nominees, all of whom I believe are understood to be for sound-money, except at the sacrifice of their principles? These deluded gentlemen we must concede are as honest as we, they are as much entitled to their opinions as we, they are as free to hold them as Democrats as we, and they are doubtless as disinclined to surrender principles as we. Is not your dictum, therefore, an invitation or rather a direct chal-

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Sales on our market for the for the week embraced 1860 bbls. of burley tobacco, the market remaining steady and firm we had no advance in values except for highly colored goods. We have made an earnest effort to get tull and accurate information regarding the extent of damage to the tobacco crop by the recent frost and freeze.
Our reports are very numerous from the various tobacco producing sections of this and adjoining States, but it is difficult to estimate the percentage of loss as applied to the whole section, because the amount of tobacco on the hill at the time of the frost varied vastly in different localities. In some burley counties, no doubt more than one-fourth of the crop was caught,
while in other counties, the percentage caught was too small to be important. The Mason county section and the Upper Blue Grass counties, together with some of the counties farther down on the Ohio river and the Hart county locality, suffered most while the least damage to burley was in the tier of counties between Louisville and Lexington. After a review of the whole situation we deem it conservative to estimate that approximately 15 per cent. of the entire burley crop was caught on the hill and its destruction was practically complete. As regards the dark crop, the least damage was in the Clarksville and Paducah sections, the percentage of uncut tobacco in these localities being small except perhaps in the West Tennessee Counties, but in the section from Henderson to Cumberland river and extending as far East as Green river (embracing an important part of the dark producing countries) and in the dark producing countries along the stem of the L. & N. railroad, a material percentage of the crop was caught by the frost and destroyed. The damage done varies very much in different parts of the Davies county or Green River fliter section, some neighborhoods having practically housed their crops before the frost. While other localities had fully one-fourth of the crop on the hill. Taking into consideration the volume of production in the different sections and the extent of damage in each, we conclude that the whole dark crop, something like 12 or 15 per cent.
has been lost.

The following quotations fairly represent our market for burley tobacco 1894 crop:

Common to medium leaf $5.00 to Medium to good leaf, $7.50 to $12.

Good to fine leaf, $12 to $15.
Select wrappry leaf, $15 to $30.00.
